Chapter 328: The Third Divine Jewel

Sung Jin-Woo’s ever-expanding influence across the multiverse continued to astonish even the Twelve Divine Beings who served alongside him. The spread of his divinity was unlike anything witnessed before. Contrary to the belief that such vast dispersal would weaken him, it instead amplified his strength to unimaginable levels.

Every creation, every realm, every follower, and every tool imbued with his divinity served as a node in a massive network. This network funneled energy back to its source—Sung Jin-Woo himself—making him stronger with every act of creation and benevolence.

The Third Divine Jewel

One fateful moment, while seated on his throne in the Umbra Citadel, Sung Jin-Woo felt a powerful surge of energy coursing through his being. His eyes shimmered with a radiant glow as he clutched his abdomen. A warm, pulsating sensation resonated within him, signaling yet another stage of evolution.

Inside his stomach, a third divine jewel materialized, as radiant as the first jewel in his chest.

Characteristics of the Third Jewel:

Size: As big as his thumb, identical in size to the first jewel.

Location: Embedded deep within his stomach, linked directly to his nerves, backbone, and brain.

Purpose:

Acts as an extra reserve source of divine power, storing immense amounts of energy for critical moments.

Enhances his neurological functions, granting him unparalleled reflexes, perception, and mental acuity.

Strengthens the connection between his mind and body, ensuring flawless coordination.

Serves as an anchor for his evolving divinity, stabilizing the colossal power surging through him.

A Surge of Power

As the jewel solidified within him, Sung Jin-Woo stood from his throne. His presence radiated an overwhelming aura, shaking the foundations of the Umbra Citadel. His subjects, sensing this monumental shift, bowed in reverence, their faith and admiration deepening further.

Ashborn and Sung Su-Ho, observing from their own realms, could only marvel at his ascension.

“Father's power…” Sung Su-Ho muttered in awe. “It’s infinite. Unstoppable.”

Sung Jin-Woo clenched his fists, feeling the limitless energy coursing through him. The third jewel not only enhanced his power but also unlocked deeper potential within his divine abilities. His comprehension of the cosmos expanded, and his control over creation became more refined.

Reflection

As Sung Jin-Woo gazed out into the endless expanse of the Absolute Realm, he mused on this newfound evolution. His journey had been one of constant growth, driven by the desire to protect, nurture, and empower all life. The third divine jewel symbolized the culmination of his efforts—a testament to his unwavering resolve.

“This is only the beginning,” he said softly, his voice resonating like a celestial hymn. “There is still much to create… much to protect.”

With this evolution, Sung Jin-Woo’s ascension to a truly omnipotent existence seemed inevitable. The multiverse flourished under his guidance, and his legacy as the God of Creation and Abundance became eternal.
